HAPPINESS

Happiness has a different meaning for everyone and yet it is only one thing. If you asked a cheerleader what Happiness is, she might tell you it is the thrill of a packed gym and a roaring crowd. A debater might say it is the exhilaration of the final speech after a tense argument. To a golfer, happiness might be the excitement of a long shot down the fairway. But they are all describing the same emotion: the joy of fulfilling yourself.

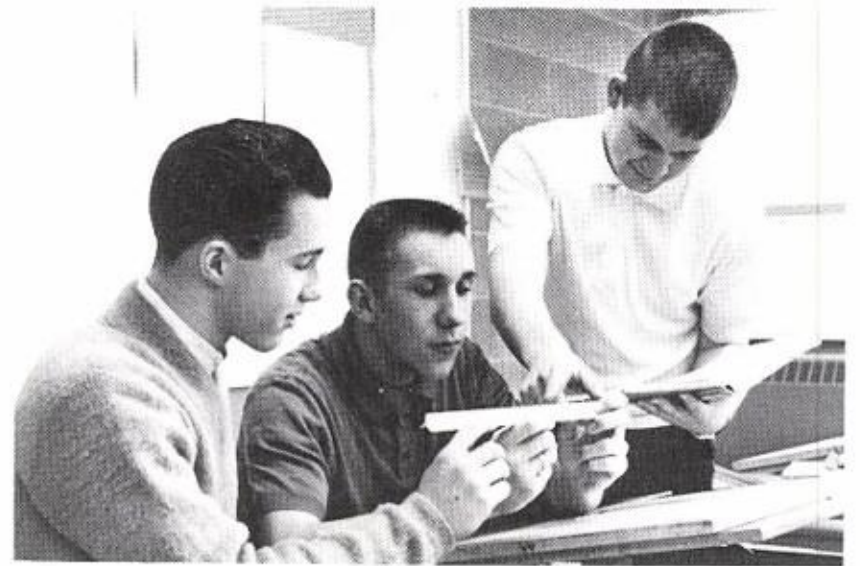

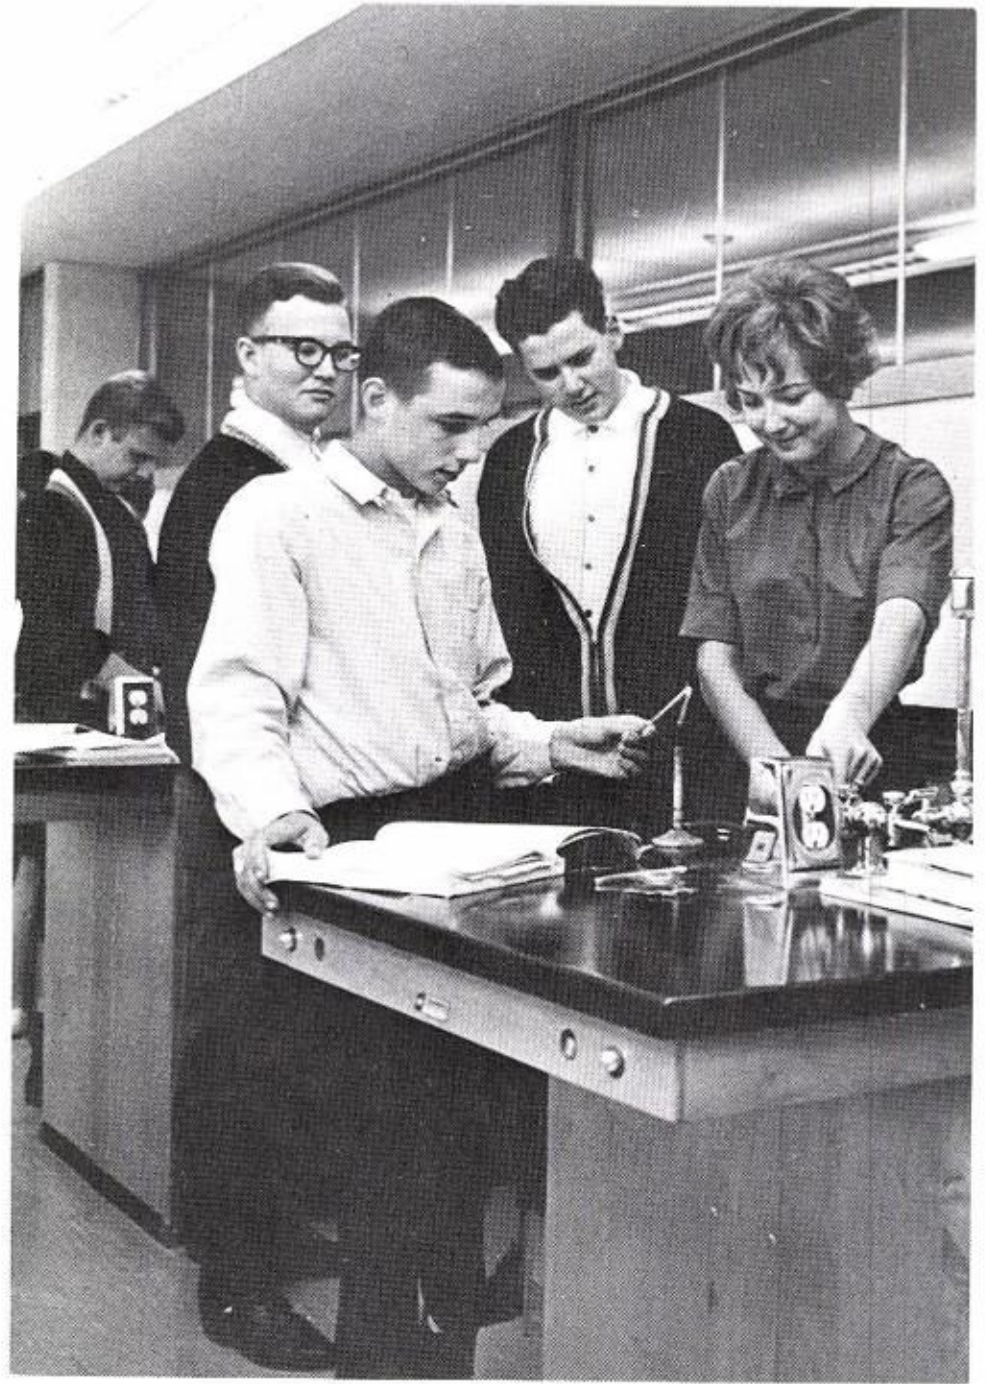

Happiness is all the miracles. It is the ecstasy of climbing the rope in gym class and the satisfaction of having your homework done on Friday. It is the excitement of the last quarter of a football game and the elation of a checkmate. It is unplannable, intangible, and incomprehensible.

Yet what else will we remember about high school? Time will gloss over the boredom and loneliness, leaving only the warm glow of retrospect. We will remember the rich smell of burning leaves and the crunch of dry ones underfoot on the first day of school. We will remember waiting for the bus on winter mornings and watching the stars fade away. And that, after all, is happiness.

Happiness Is:

... Achievement

... Sharing with others

Relaxation

. . . .Wonderful

Mr. Whitmer

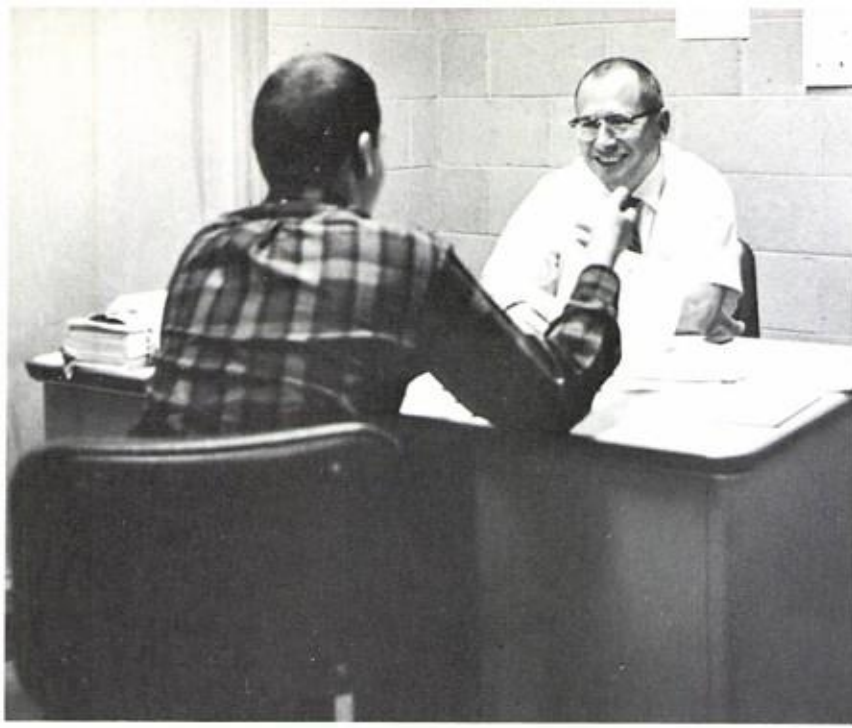

Mr. Webb G. Whitmer has been in the Flushing school system for nine years, teaching everything from seventh grade math to driver education. Before coming to Flushing, he had been principal, coach, and teacher in schools in Ohio, Missouri, and wouthern Michigan. Altogether, he has been teaching for sixteen years.

The history of Mr. Whitmer's life at Flushing is also the history of the growth of the counselling program. When he first took charge of the program nine years ago, he had one hour in which to handle the guidance of both the junior and the senior high; now he has five hours in which to manage counselling for seniors alone. Moreover, he does more work now than he did nine years ago. Then, he could only scratch the surface. Now he counsels seniors on their career and college choices, advises juniors on their senior courses, and makes all the college and job recommendations that the school board superintendent had made before. Counselling has become more important in education and Mr. Whitmer's job has become more demanding.

Mr. Whitmer is still at Flushing, still making out absence slips, still helping seniors with the most important question of their high school career: What shall we do after high school? Whether they go on to college or start working right after school, they can be confident that they have always had the best advice on their choice.

Well, you see, it's like this . . .

Ten years ago, Flushing wasn't even listed in any almanac because it had fewer than twenty five hundred residents. Today it has almost four thousand people, but population is only a small part of its growth. Not only has Flushing changed from a village to a city, it has become a suburban rather than a rural area.

Its educational needs have changed too. Today, for instance, fewer high school students are studying agriculture and more are taking shop courses. The fact that we have been able to keep pace with Flushing's growth is due to seven men, our Board of Education, who have donated their time and energy to the Flushing school system. In the past five years, we have built a new high school, a new grade school and have made plans for a new junior high. Still in the future are plans for an addition to the high school. Because of the foresight of its school board, Flushing can face its educational future with confidence.

Mr. John Brissaud - Principal

Mr. John Brissaud was born in 1929 in Hartford, Michigan. He attended Western Michigan University where he got a Bachelor of Science degree and Michigan State University where he earned a Master of Arts degree. Before coming to Flushing, he had been a high school principal in Fowlerville. He now lives with his wife and daughter in the Labian Subdivision in Flushing.

In his first year at Flushing, Mr. Brissaud is impressed with the friendliness of the faculty and students and especially pleased that they take such pride in their school. He feels that Flushing ranks high in the state with schools of comparable size.

Flushing has changed rapidly in the past few years, from a rural to a suburban community, and Mr. Brissaud wants to match this growth with educational development. We already have the buildings and equipment, now we must concentrate on other areas. In connection with Mr. Bradley, Mr. Brissaud works on the school curriculum. He is also in charge of faculty and student relations. With a background of education and experience, and with a loyal student body, Mr. Brissaud expects Flushing to achieve its goal of progressive education.

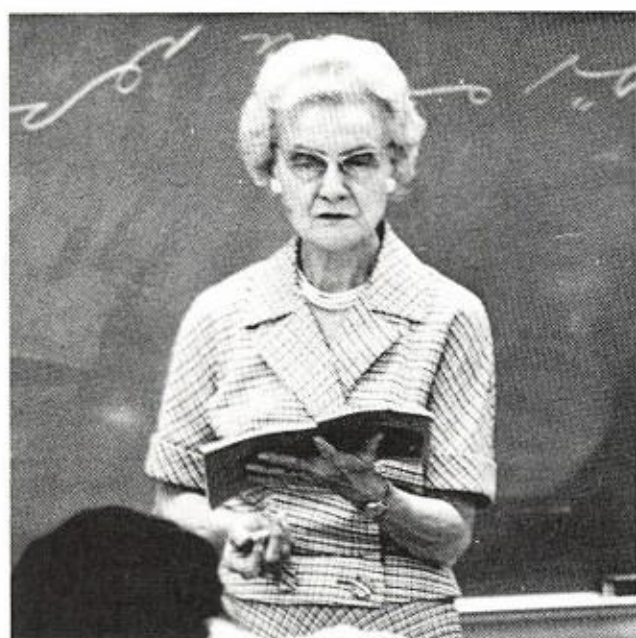

Pleasant don't hit me, Daddy!

Senior homeroom—designed to save space, spare teachers, and give seniors the time to plan their various activities together. Mrs. Cross and Mr. Whitmer tried to maintain order in spite of gum chewing, Bettie haircuts, spontaneous entertainment programs, and general confusion. It was here while we planned the Christmas card sale, the senior trip and the graduation ceremonies, that we first felt united as a class.

Homecoming

The brightest constellation in the fall horoscope is the homecoming. Every year a group of harried students spend weeks planning one spontaneous, uncontrollable week-end. Katy Beebe was this year's general chairman. She was assisted by Lee Eavy, in charge of the parade, Judy Ruester, pre-game activities, Gae Ann Tarkowski, half-time activities, and Sue Young, publicity.

The court was more serene. Mary Woodhouse was voted queen. In her court were Sue Scafe, Mary Lou Wildfong, Linda Somers, and Judee Gifford. Sue Antioho was the junior attendant, Bev Wascher the sophomore attendant, and Janice Hammond the freshman attendant.

The junior class, with Karen St. John in charge, sponsored the homecoming dance.
